MODESTO, CA. - PFLAG Modesto will be hosting the Fourth annual MoFest Film Festival all day Saturday October 11th at the State Theatre, 1307 J Street in downtown Modesto. This event includes premier screenings of short and feature films celebrating the diverse lives of Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgender communities.

The matinee starts with a reception at 2:00 in the afternoon. The films begin with a special showing of short interviews with area residents (2:30). Following the interviews will be a short comedy film, King County (2007), in which a community theatre company searches for the next 80's movie to turn into a Broadway smash hit. Another short is next, How Do I Say This? I'm Gay? (2007), about a talk show is aimed at college students dealing with the tribulations of coming out. The matinee feature is Tru Loved (2008), a high school story with a happy ending, written and directed by Stewart Wade... "Recently relocated from San Francisco to conservative suburbia by her lesbian mothers, Tru struggles like all teens to fit in and find love..."

The evening celebration starts with another reception at 6:00 pm. Short interviews of local residents begins at 6:45, followed by King County and How Do I Say This? I'm Gay.

The feature of the night will be the award-winning Were the World Mine (2008), written and directed by Tom Gustafson, "If you had a love potion, who would you make fall madly in love with you?"

Tickets are $10.00 for each show, or $15.00 for those attending both, and can be purchased from PFLAG members, or at the door. PFLAG Modesto (Parents, Family, Friends of Lesbians and Gays) acts to create a society that is healthy and respectful of human diversity.
